Sacasa Declares He Will Continue Fight With Diaz

General Chief Donce Reports That He Contemplates Giving Up His Fight—Reactions to U. S. Policy Being Received From Many Points.

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP).—As congress continues to debate the Hidalgo administration's policy in dealing with the Nicaraguan-Mexican situation, cable advices presenting a kaleidoscopic picture of reactions to the country's attitude are being received from many points.

A cablegram sent to The Associated Press at New York by Juan P. Sacasa, Liberal, engaged in civil war with Adolfo Diaz, Conservative president of Nicaragua, denied reports that he contemplated giving up his fight and declared he would remain his post "to the last extreme."

A message indicating "the disposition of my government to accept American supervision of elections in 1928" also was sent. The Associated Press said that President Diaz, who added to a more detailed statement of his program would be issued by the Nicaraguan legation here Sunday.

No information has been received to what progress is being made in an attempted mediation of the dispute by Costa Rica.

Attack U. S. Stand.

Meanwhile, San Salvador dispatches say that more than 4,000 persons, chiefly students and laborers, marched through the streets of that city in protest against the policy of the United States and listened to addresses endorsing the attitude of resident Calles of Mexico, denouncing "American imperialism."

There was no disorder.

Cuban dispatches report the arrest of Cuadalupe Alvarez, a student, and Angel Suri, a printer of Mexican nationality, on charges of distributing a pamphlet, signed by 22 students, attacking the American stand in Nicaragua.

The pamphlet, suppressed by authorities, declared "once we are the boots of the capitalists of all street, in consequence with the White House, have violated the integrity of a sister nation," and added:

"This new attempt against the liberty of Latin-America makes part in the political parody of the White House and constitutes a dark passage in the future of the continent."

Sacasa, who has been recognized as president of Nicaragua by Mexico, reported in Guatemala City dispatches to Mexico City as having sent to Secretary Kellogg protest against "North American intervention in Nicaragua," and demanding withdrawal of American marines, with a threat that unless this was done he would ask all Spanish-American countries to give armed aid in combating the "Yankee invasion."

Another protest against American intervention is contained in a letter dated December 24, a copy of which was received by The Associated Press, addressed to the state department by Adolfo Espinosa, Sacasa's minister of foreign affairs. The letter makes strong protest "in the name of the people and the government of Nicaragua," and asks: "Has the United States of America forgotten that all nations have a right to independence in the international community?"

While the United States position has been attacked and defended in the Senate and House yesterday, Dr. P. K. Cushman, president of the Federal Council of Churches, declared in a statement that the churches of the country were opposed to any resort to force to settle the difficulties in Nicaragua and Mexico.

WILE AND MORTGAGE COMPANY DIRECTORS

The annual meeting of Hudson Counties Title & Mortgage Company was held at the Title Company building, No. 46 South street, Newburgh, on January 12.

The following were elected as directors for 1927: Peter Cantale, Newburgh; Alfred J. Crane, Newburgh; Albert S. Embler, Walden; Frank H. Van Nieuwenhuis, Newburgh; Walter S. Godsey, Newburgh; Gilbert R. Paken, Newburgh; Arthur B. Patterson, Newburgh; Edward C. Smith, Newburgh; and Robert W. Smith, Newburgh.

Owing to the growth of the company and the demand for mortgage money, the stockholders voted to increase the capital stock from $150,000 to $300,000. The company plans to issue the new stock during June or July of this year.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR ST. MARY'S BAZAAR

The annual bazaar of St. Mary's church will be held on January 26, 27, 28 and 29 at the school hall and in the rectory of the parish are arranging details in preparation for the bazaar. There will be many booths constructed in the large hall and each department of the church will have charge of a specific line of merchandise.

On the opening night which will be on Wednesday, January 26, a children's bazaar will be served by the ladies of the St. Mary's Guild and on the following nights the same committee will serve a variety of refreshments.

The bazaar of past years have been a great success and this year the committee is expected to bring in a large sum of money.

Describes Killing In Norris Trial

Eye Witness Tells How Texas Clergyman Shot Lumberman in His Church Study—Indicates Relative Positions on Model.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 15 (AP).—Counsel for the Rev. J. Frank Norris today faced testimony of a surprise prosecution witness who closed the state's case a few hours after it opened in district court here yesterday with an illustrated statement of how the Fort Worth pastor shot and killed Dexter E. Chipps in the Baptist Church study there July 17.

Announced as the only eye witness the state would call, Mrs. Rorie Parker of Fort Worth testified she stood near the door of the pastor's office when it was suddenly thrown open, revealing Dr. Norris and another man. She pointed out the positions of the men and herself on a model of the church office.

The man was in the doorway while Dr. Norris stood about five feet from him, she said. As the man turned, as though to leave, he raised one hand and said, "I'll be back." Mrs. Parker testified.

"Just then there was the flash of a gun. Shots were fired in rapid succession. The man staggered and fell down a stairway."

Asked by William McLean of state counsel who fired the shots, Mrs. Parker replied, "Dr. Norris."

The state then rested its case. Mrs. Parker was the sixth witness called by the state in support of its charge of murder. A vigorous statement by the defense failed to change her story. She explained her presence at the church was due to a desire to tell her farm to Dr. Norris for a Sunday school camp.

She was subpoenaed only two days ago when the state announced it would produce an eye witness to the slaying to attack the pastor's contention that he killed Chipps after the lumberman had threatened him. Counsel for Dr. Norris maintained that L. H. Nutt, an official of the church, and the pastor's secretary were the only eye witnesses.

DuFlon Stands First in State

Former Kingstonian Heads Metropolitan Insurance District Agency in Schenectady—Which Leads State Territory for Second Year.

For the second consecutive year, the Schenectady district of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has won the state honors of the organization, according to the 1926 report read at the annual meeting at the general offices, 565 State street, Schenectady, recently. Last year's efforts increased the 1925 record by 15 per cent. Manager Harry R. DuFlon announced.

Manager DuFlon declared himself optimistic concerning Schenectady's future and announced his intention of increasing the agency staff there and the volume of production during 1927.

The Metropolitan organization, which is known throughout the territory as the "University District," has 59 representatives. During 1926 four promotions were made; three agents were promoted to assistant managers in other districts in the state, and one assistant was promoted to manager. Ward G. Hamm, of the Schenectady district, who was the leading agent in the ordinary department for 1926, made a world's record in 1925 in the industrial department. Carl A. Anderson of Schenectady was the leading assistant manager in the country for 1926. Mr. Anderson also had the same record for 1925, receiving a letter of recognition from Haley Fluke, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Mr. DuFlon was formerly connected with the Kingston agency of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred DuFlon of No. 15 Lafayette avenue, this city.

A. F. of L. Declares War on "Reds"

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 15 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor has declared war on Communism.

"Organized labor today is battling continuously with a force which has pitted itself against not only labor but against all other groups of society and even the American government," President William Green declared in an address last night.

"We invite these communists to the struggle," he challenged.

COUNTESS SAIL ON HER WAY TO ENGLAND

New York, Jan. 15 (AP).—Countess Selen, the former Millicent Rogers, today was on her way to England, where her small son, Peter, cousin of Nicholas between Count Selen and the Countess, resided in care of her father, Colonel H. H. Rogers.

The Countess was accompanied by her brother and her brother, H. H. Rogers, Jr. Colonel Rogers accompanied his family to the pier. Count Selen's suit for separation from the Countess was reported settled out of court last Thursday, under an agreement which the Countess to receive $250,000.

May Amputate Gardiner's Leg

Doctors Believe Rhinebeck Painter Injured In Fall, Should Have Leg Amputated to Restore Health—Other Compensation Cases.

Referee John J. Burns representing the compensation department of the State Industrial Commission held hearings at the court house on Friday of persons who had become ill or were injured in course of their employment for compensation. Awards were made as follows:

Mary Smith, R. F. 1, Kingston, town of Hurley, employer, $61.56.

George Dedrich, Madalin, employer, town of Red Hook, $53.86.

Joseph Jabonski, 46 Second avenue, Kingston, employer, W. F. & R., Inc., boatbuilders, $33.26.

Michael Wojcikowski, 224 Third avenue, Kingston, employer, W. F. & R., Inc., boatbuilders, $63.33.

Charles Miller, 365 Broadway, Kingston, employer, David Samuels, $32.65.

Franklin Beninger, Fourth avenue, Kingston, employer, Skinner & Cook, contractors, $144.27.

Thomas Graham, Rosendale, employer, A. J. Snyder, $87.20.

Alonso Winnie, Ashokan, employer, U. & D. Railroad, Kingston, $91.40.

William Swart, R. F. Saugerties, employer, Philip Goldrick & Sons, $210.

John Sangi, Glasco, employer, Alva S. Staples, Kingston, $100.25.

George Emerick, Sr., Kerhonkson, employer, Aldrey Green Ford, $51.20.

H. T. Hume, Shandaken, employer, Sweeney & Boland, Rochester, $15.63.

Charles Gardiner of Rhinebeck, who on April 11, 1925, while employed at Port Jervis by the Carhart Advertising Company, painting, fell from a scaffold and sustained three fractures of the left leg below the knee and three fractures of the left arm, besides other injuries. He has been under treatment since Friday.

Mr. Gardiner was at the hearing and by request of Referee Burns was examined by Drs. Chandler and Larkia of this city, and Dr. H. M. Scorsato, the latter representing the referee. The examining doctors expressed the opinion the left leg should be amputated half way between the ankle and knee and that an artificial leg be provided. This would do much to aid in restoration of Mr. Gardiner's health and give him a brighter outlook on life. The injured man said he would take the recommendation under advisement, confer with his wife and also take up the matter with the doctor who had originally handled the case. The case was held open.

DEMANDS ACTION AGAINST OPERATORS OF "DRY" CLUB

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP).—Demand for grand jury action against operators of the New York Bridge Whist Club was made today by Representative La Guardia, Republican, New York, who said he was prompted by recent admissions by Secretary Mellon that the club was conducted as a "blind" to snare liquor law violators.

In a letter to District Attorney Buckner, the New York representative asked for indictments against Chester P. Mills, prohibition administrator for New York city, and A. Bruce Bielaski and Ralph W. Bickle, "under cover" men for the prohibition unit, on the grounds that Bickle had admitted selling liquor in the club and therefore had violated the law.

"You will, without any difficulty be able to present facts," La Guardia's letter said, "showing that the said Ralph W. Bickle sold liquor (at the club) by direction, advice and with the knowledge and consent of the said Chester P. Mills and A. Bruce Bielaski."

Secretary Mellon, in a communication to Chairman Graham of the House judiciary committee, admitted recently that prohibition unit funds were used to conduct the club.

COLDEST WEATHER AT NIAGARA FRONTIER

Buffalo, Jan. 15 (AP).—The Niagara frontier received its share of the widespread cold wave today. The weather bureau here reported that the lowest temperature yet recorded this winter was reached at 9 a. m. today with the mercury at one below zero, and the forecast called for still colder weather during the next 24 hours.

The prediction was tempered with the welcome information, however, that "much warmer" weather may be expected by Monday.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION FOR A COURT STENOGRAPHER

The state civil service commission will hold a written examination for court stenographer (occasional service) for the United county court, on February 19. One immediate appointment expected at $1,200.

Search Begins From Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hume of 604 Broadway have returned from an extensive trip through Florida. Traveling mostly by bus they visited many beautiful towns, going as far as St. Marys, Fla. Mr. Hume said that the state has not yet fully recovered from the disastrous hurricane and the Red Cross is still giving aid. Mr. Hume conducts a shoe repairing shop opposite the new Broadway theatre.

SALE PROVES VALUE OF COOPERATION SAYS GORMAN

V. A. Gorman, member of the firm of Rose-Gorman-Rose says: "This Merchants' Cooperative sale has proved the value of cooperation. No individual store could put on a sale that would be so successful and so pleasing to the people generally. Every store gave real bargains and the people knew it. Cooperation wins every time."

Chaplin Ready to Answer Charges

Film Comedian Admits He Is Worried But Also Confident of Outcome—Will Not Retire From Screen.

New York, Jan. 15 (AP).—Charlie Chaplin says he is ready to fight for his children and will answer his wife's charges in a counter suit for divorce, to be filed in California as soon as possible.

Th motion picture comedian blamed his wife's family for what he termed "vicious, terrible accusations" made against him in the divorce charges filed by his wife, Lita Grey Chaplin.

"It's cruel and unjustified—this onslaught on me," he said at the home of his attorney, Nathan Burkan, last night. "I can't understand all this bitterness, except that I know it has been instigated by my wife's family. She must be devoid of feeling, I guess."

"The unfair, malicious and wholly untrue statements of Mrs. Chaplin," said Mr. Burkan, "furnish sufficient grounds for suit for divorce for cruel and inhuman treatment."

Worried But Confident.

Chaplin intimated he will be here for perhaps two weeks, in which he would plan his divorce action. He admitted he was worried, but said he was confident of the outcome. "I have faith in the patience and sense of fair play of the people until I have a chance in court to tell my side of the story," he said.

Asked if he was still in love with his wife, whom he married four years ago, when she was 16, Chaplin replied:

"How can one be, after such horrible accusations. I hardly think I can have any sane views on love at this time, when I'm so close to this awful experience."

"I see all around me happiness, tenderness, home life, sanity—all the things I love, and I am very much attached to children and home life. I like both my children, they are both very wonderful. I wouldn't say that I love one more than the other; one may be more interesting than the other, but I love them both."

Worries About Children.

"That's the tragedy of this whole thing—the stigma it has cast on their poor little lives. What I worry about most is my children, and my own self respect."

He said he believed his wife had been "hoodwinked and fooled" into suing for divorce and that he hoped to get money out of the action. He met her allegation that he had boasted of love affairs with five motion picture actresses by stating:

"Do I like five women, you bet I do. I like fifty women. If you appreciate beauty you like women, but you don't have to be morally wrong."

Loved Wife Before Separation.

He said he had loved his wife before their separation, and added, "Unfortunately," he had expected a home, companionship, comradeship, be asserted, and interest in one another and interest in the world outside themselves. But he intimated he had not found it.

"Cruelty kills love," he said, "but I would rather not go into details now. I shall reserve that for the court, and I am reserving my complaint against my wife for the proper time and place. I don't understand the legalities of the thing at all. The whole case is a labyrinth of confusion."

He denied he would retire from the screen, although he said work on his picture, "The Circus," in process of making, was temporarily suspended.

Warmer Weather Promised Sunday

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP).—Warmer weather Sunday east of the Mississippi river, except in portions of New England and central Florida, were forecast today by the weather bureau.

On Monday it will be warmer throughout the eastern and south-eastern states.

The great area of abnormally cold weather from the far northwest today had overspread the eastern half of the country excepting portions of the Atlantic States. The line of zero temperatures extended southward to the lower Ohio valley, the ten degree line southward to Birmingham and Atlanta, and the 20 degree line nearly to the Alabama coast. The lowest temperature reported was 20 below at Mount Quaker.

In the east the weather will be cooler tonight, except from the lower Ohio valley southward to the Alabama and Mississippi coasts.

Dr. J. R. Gillett Died Suddenly

Widely Known Specialist in Obstetrics Had Been Afflicted With Organic Heart Trouble—Member of Staff of Kingston City Hospital.

Dr. J. R. Gillett, widely known specialist in obstetrics, died suddenly this morning in Middletown of organic trouble with which he had been afflicted for a long time. Dr. Gillett's health had been such that last December he was forced to take a month's vacation which he spent in the northern part of the state, returning to Kingston early this month when his health became such that he was forced to give up his practice.

There were few physicians more widely or favorably known than Dr. Gillett. Before becoming a physician he was principal of School No. 4 in Ponckhockie, and later took up the practice of medicine with Dr. George H. Van Gaasbeek at his office on Smith avenue. Dr. Van Gaasbeek was a noted specialist in the diseases of children and Dr. Gillett took over his practice when Dr. Van Gaasbeek removed from this city.

With the passing years Dr. Gillett became more and more interested in obstetrical work and began to devote more time to that phase of a physician's work and went to New York city where he took a postgraduate course in obstetrics, until at the time of his death he was considered one of the best physicians in his line of work in the Hudson river valley.

For a number of years Dr. Gillett had been a member of the staff of the Kingston City Hospital, and during the years that he practiced his profession he had brought thousands of babies into the world.

Fraternally Dr. Gillett was a Mason and was a past master of Roundout Lodge No. 343, F. & A. M. He was also a member of Mt. Horeb Chapter, No. 75, R. A. M., and a past commander of Roundout Commandery, No. 52, Knights Templar; past illustrious master of Ancient City Council of Royal and Select Masons, and a member of Mecca Temple of the Shrine of Albany.

Dr. Gillett found time to devote himself to Masonic activities, he was very fond of music and was for years an active member of the Masonic orchestra of Roundout Lodge.

A widely read man and a profound student, he was an interesting talker and was always surrounded by a wide circle of friends who held him in deep esteem. His Masonic activities together with his skill as a physician made him one of the best known men in Ulster county.

Dr. Gillett is survived by his wife and five daughters: Florence E., Alice M., M. Charlotte, Ruth Edith and Helen D. Gillett. Dr. Gillett and his family resided at No. 137 Elmendorf street.

In the death of Dr. Gillett the Medical profession of Kingston and Ulster county has lost one of its leading members, and the city a citizen who was always interested in its welfare.

HARVARD HEAD DEPLORES SPECTACULAR CONTESTS

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 15 (AP).—Colleges ought to be something more than adjuncts to football stadiums, President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard believes.

In a statement today clarifying and defining the university's athletic ideals and policy, he declared that the true end of athletic interest is the promotion of physical development and well being throughout the student body.

The statement, which formed a part of his annual report to the overseers, deplored the excesses of spectacular games and asserted that intercollegiate contests must not be regarded as entertainment for the alumni and public.

Marking back, apparently, to the disruption last fall of the Big Three of eastern sports, when Harvard precipitated Princeton's withdrawal from athletic contests with the Crimson, Dr. Lowell praised the policy of rotation of games which made Yale the only fixture on the annual football schedule.

SUSPENDED LICENSES OF TWO ULSTER MOTORISTS

Charles A. Hartnett, commissioner of motor vehicles, revoked or suspended 379 certificates of automobile registration and licenses to drive during the two weeks ended January 13. In New York and vicinity there were 28 revocations and 150 suspensions. In other sections of the state there were 33 revocations and 29 suspensions. Those who had their licenses suspended in Ulster county were: Fred Brukema, 194 Harley avenue, Kingston, and Charles Riley, East Bridge street, Saugerties.

WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR THE COMING WEEK

Following is the weather outlook for the week beginning Monday:

North and Middle Atlantic States: Cloudy with rapidly rising temperatures Monday, some probability of light snow or rain Tuesday and Wednesday, then generally fair for a day or two, followed by rains or snow; temperatures will be above normal.

Shot Down at Door of His Home

Ignatz Sals Believed By Police To Have Been Victim of Either Revenge Plot Or Mistaken Identity—Fighting Chance For Recovery.

New York, Jan. 15 (AP).—Ignatz Sals, wealthy fountain pen manufacturer, shot down by two men who called him to the door of his fashionable West Side apartment, was thought by police today to have been a victim of either a revenge plot or mistaken identity.

Sals, said to be well known in night club circles, was expecting a caller at his apartment last evening, and answered his door bell without question. To men stood in the hallway.

"Give it to him," one said, and they fired.

One of the bullets entered Sals's right side and lodged in his abdomen. At the hospital it was said he had a fighting chance for recovery.

Sals's apartment is in the same house in which Louise Lawson, pretty music student of Walnut Springs, Texas, was strangled to death in 1924, a crime that never has been solved. In the same neighborhood the unsolved murders of Joseph B. Elwell, whist expert, and Dorothy King, showgirl, occurred.

Sals could give but meagre description of his unknown assailants. Shortly after they drove off in an automobile a young woman arrived at the apartment and fainted when told of the shooting. She told police she had a dinner engagement with Sals, and after being questioned was permitted to leave.

The revenge plot theory was based upon Sals's night club activities, and the mistaken identity motive on the fact that Ralph H. Oyer, chief of the Federal narcotic bureau in this district, lives in the same house. Oyer, earlier in the day, caused the arrest of a woman, reputed to be the head of a worldwide syndicate of drug smugglers.

Flu Situation in New York State

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Current reports from abroad are that in many European countries and in England acute respiratory disease is unduly prevalent. Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., state commissioner of health, sees no cause for alarm here. He is of the opinion that the reported outbreaks are not influenza as people knew it in 1918 and 1919 when the young, strong adults were the ones most seriously ill. The present outbreak seems to be relatively mild, except among those with poor general resistance—old people, babies and the physically weak.

"As a matter of fact," states Dr. Nicoll, "we do not know what influenza is. There is no way by which it may be differentiated from a common cold with fever. It was owing to this fact that last year influenza was taken off the list of reportable diseases in this state. Cases of practically all acute respiratory infections were being reported to us as influenza. However, although individual cases of influenza are not reportable, health officers are required to report to the State Department of Health all outbreaks which they believe may be influenza."

Dr. Nicoll emphasized the fact that there was one thing for a person who has a so-called feverish cold to do—to go to bed immediately and stay there until he is well. Whatever be the infection, recovery will be much more prompt and complications, which not infrequently are fatal, especially in the very young, the aged and the debilitated, will be avoided. Little can be done to prevent the spread of the disease but prolonged illness and death can be prevented by attention to this detail.

Houghton Staying With His Brother

New York, Jan. 15 (AP).—Alanson B. Houghton, American ambassador to England, who cancelled his passage on the Aquitania shortly before the vessel sailed early today, said he was staying over with his brother, Arthur A. Houghton, who is ill at a hotel here.

Reports circulated that his action was due to the Nicaraguan and Mexican situations were declared untrue by Mr. Houghton. His wife and daughters sailed.

CANTONERS FURBISH LONG STRENGTHS

Shanghai, Jan. 15 (AP).—The Cantonese forces here reported today to have suffered a reverse in Chekiang province by the loss of Ningpo, their last stronghold in that state, to the army of Marshal Sun Chuan Fong, Shanghai leader supporting the northerners. The defeated forces were said to be retreating toward Peking province.

An official communication said Marshal Sun's forces had occupied Tientsin on the west Choking front.

Chambers Fire At Bakery

The fire department was called out this morning for a chimney fire at the bakery of J. Leonard Polyzonis on Spring street.

Anti-Evolution Law of Tennessee Constitutional

Supreme Court Upholds Tennessee's Anti-Evolution Law in Opinion on Scopes Case—Lower Court's Verdict Reversed.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 15 (AP).—The Tennessee Supreme court upheld the state's anti-evolution law today in an opinion on the case of John T. Scopes.

The opinion, delivered by Chief Justice Green, while affirming the constitutionality of the anti-evolution law, reversed the lower court's verdict on the ground that a Judge cannot assess a fine of more than $50, that being the duty of the jury.

The court's ruling suggested that the case against Scopes, who was convicted in the district court at Dayton in July, 1925, be nolle prossed.

Associate Justice McKinney, in a dissenting opinion, declared his belief that the act is invalid. The whole court agreed that the verdict must be reversed because of the amount of the fine.

Justice's Statement

Chief Justice Green, in a statement preliminary to reading of the opinion, said:

"The majority of the court holds the act to be constitutional. Judge Cook, Judge Chambliss and myself, Judge McKinney believes the act invalid and will state his reasons."

"Judge Cook and I think the act prohibits broadly the teaching in the schools of the state that man descended from a lower order of animals. Judge Chambliss thinks the act only prohibits the teaching of the materialists theory of evolution which denies the hand of God in the creation of man. He will state his reasons."

Trial Judge Erred

"All of us agree that the judgment herein must be reversed on account of the error of the trial judge in attempting himself to fix a fine of $100 upon Scopes. Under the Constitution of Tennessee, a fine in excess of $50 can only be assessed by a jury. The jury in this case returned a verdict of guilty but did not assess the fine and the judge undertook to do this himself. Since the minimum punishment authorized by the statute is a fine of $100 and no tribunal except a jury can levy such a fine in this state, the error pointed out can only be corrected by awarding a new trial."

"All of us agree that nothing is to be gained by prolonging the life of this bizarre case. On the contrary we think that the peace and dignity of the state, will be subserved by the entry of a nolle prosequi herein. Such a course is suggested to the attorney-general."

Justice McKinney's dissenting opinion declared his belief that the statute is invalid "for uncertainty of meaning."

TAIL END OF BLIZZARD VISITS KINGSTON

What appears to be the tail end of the big blizzard that was reported sweeping over the east from the west struck Kingston early this morning and when residents awoke it was to find the city enveloped in a swirl of snow accompanied by a high, chilling biting wind that made it very disagreeable for those who had to face it to get to work.

At police headquarters the thermometer stood at 15 degrees above zero for several hours. Walking was very treacherous as the slight fall of snow had covered the icy spots on the sidewalks, hiding them from view until they were unexpectedly stepped upon by pedestrians.

Snow of light quality, that somewhat resembled particles of sand, fell throughout the morning hours in Kingston.

The board of public works on Friday scattered several truckloads of sand on the Wurts street hill and also on the West Pierpont street hill. These hills are used extensively by traffic and the icy conditions tended to accidents, which caused the sprinkling of sand over the ice.

TWO BROTHERS ARE CONVICTED OF MURDER

Montpelier, Vt., Jan. 15 (AP).—Two brothers who testified against each other at murder trials in which each was accused of the same crime, have been convicted of murder, second degree, and manslaughter, respectively.

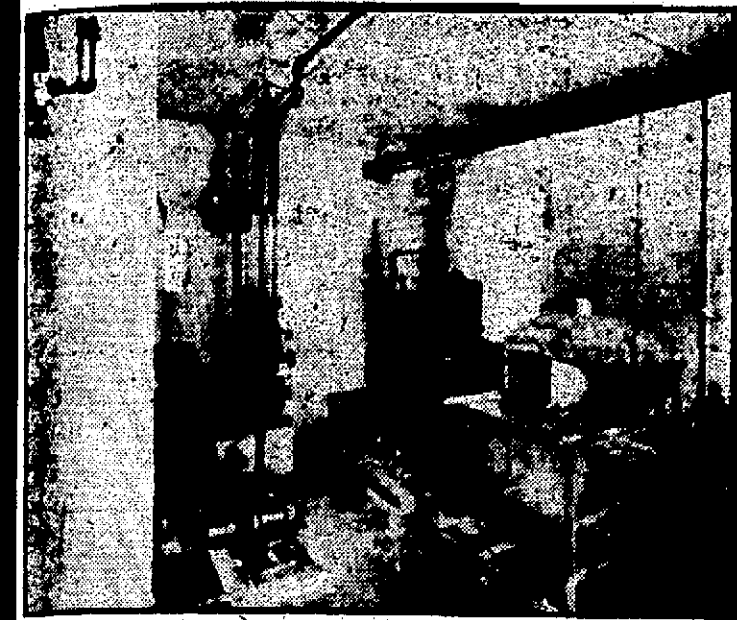

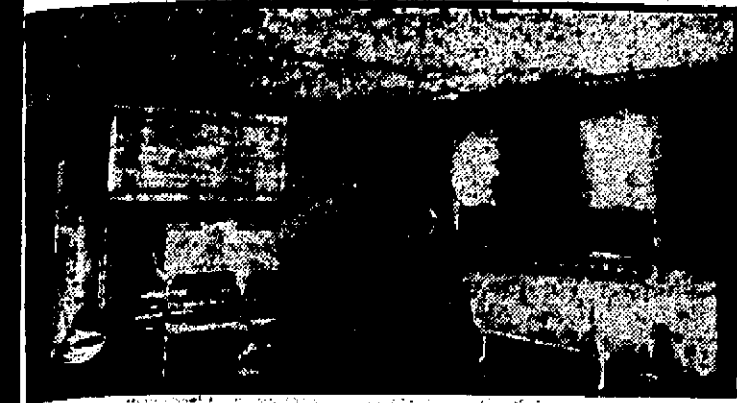

A jury today returned a verdict against Fred Lapan guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of Iron Barnham, a farmer of East Calais, who was found beaten and kicked to death July 3. Lapan was sentenced to 25 to 35 years in prison. In December, his brother, Silas, was convicted of murder, second degree, for the same killing, and was sentenced to imprisonment for life.

After the brothers were arrested Fred named his brother as the slayer. When Silas testified at Fred's trial he declared that Fred had engaged in the fight with Barnham.

Banham Got Payroll

Norwich, Conn., Jan. 15 (AP).—The weekly payroll of the Thurston Bottle Company, amounting to between $5,000 and $6,000 was taken by two armed men from the superintendent of the company and an accountant today as they approached the factory office. The bottle had in an automobile.

Modern Pasteurization Plant Installed Here

One of the most modern pasteurization plants in the city is that installed by F. E. Cloy, the milk dealer, at his place of business at No. 74 Elmendorf street. One of the main features of the plant, aside from the pasteurization plant itself, is the seven horse-power Kane gas-fired steam boiler, which is used to sterilize the bottles and milk containers and other equipment.

This Kane boiler, which is of the latest type, was installed by the Kingston Gas & Electric Company, and is entirely automatic. After the boiler has been lighted the boiler requires no further attention and automatically furnishes the required temperature used in the pasteurization process.

Since the board of health adopted the new milk ordinance last year requiring all Grade B raw milk to be pasteurized before it can be sold, a lot of the pasteurization plant would prove of interest to every consumer of pasteurized milk. The Cloy plant is always open to visitors, and gives a vivid idea of just how milk is pasteurized and the many steps that are taken to furnish clean, pasteurized milk.

As the empty milk bottles are delivered at the plant they are placed in bottle washing machine operated by the Kane boiler, which eliminates the use of coal with its dust and ashes. This bottle washing machine not only cleans the bottles thoroughly, but sterilizes them as well. The milk cans and containers are also thoroughly sterilized with steam and water from the Kane boiler.

The raw milk as it is delivered at the plant is placed in the sterilized canister from which it is piped through sanitary piping to the filter where the milk is thoroughly strained through cotton flannel before passing into the pasteurization machine.

This pasteurization machine is a large tank through which runs a series of coils through which passes hot water and steam from the

Kane boiler. This steam and hot water is heated automatically to a temperature of 143 degrees—never any higher.

After the milk has been pasteurized it is run into the cooler where the temperature of the milk is reduced to 42 degrees, and then piped into the bottling machine. After the milk is bottled it is placed in the electric refrigerator where it is kept at the required temperature until loaded into the milk trucks for delivery on the milk routes.

At the Cloy plant the milk is not touched by hand from the time it passes into the sterilized container passing thence to the various devices and equipment until it is finally bottled, after pasteurization.

The sanitary piping which connects the various machines is taken down after the milk has been pasteurized and is not again installed until more raw milk is received at the plant when the pipes are replaced after again being thoroughly sterilized.

Y. W. C. A. Annual Meeting Jan. 24

The fourth annual meeting of the Kingston Y. W. C. A. will be held on Monday evening, January 24, in the Y. W. C. A. Hall. At that time two new members of the board of directors to serve three years will be elected. Already ballots have been mailed to all members of the association and must be at the Y. W. C. A. not later than 8 p. m., Monday evening, January 24, to be counted.

In accordance with action taken by the national convention of the Y. W. C. A., held in Milwaukee in April, 1926, and upon the recommendation of the board of directors of the Kingston Y. W. C. A., the following amendment to Article 2, Section 5, of the constitution will be voted upon by all electors present at the annual meeting. In accordance with the provisions of the constitution, this amendment must receive a two-thirds vote of the electors present at the annual meetings of 1927 and 1928 before it is adopted.

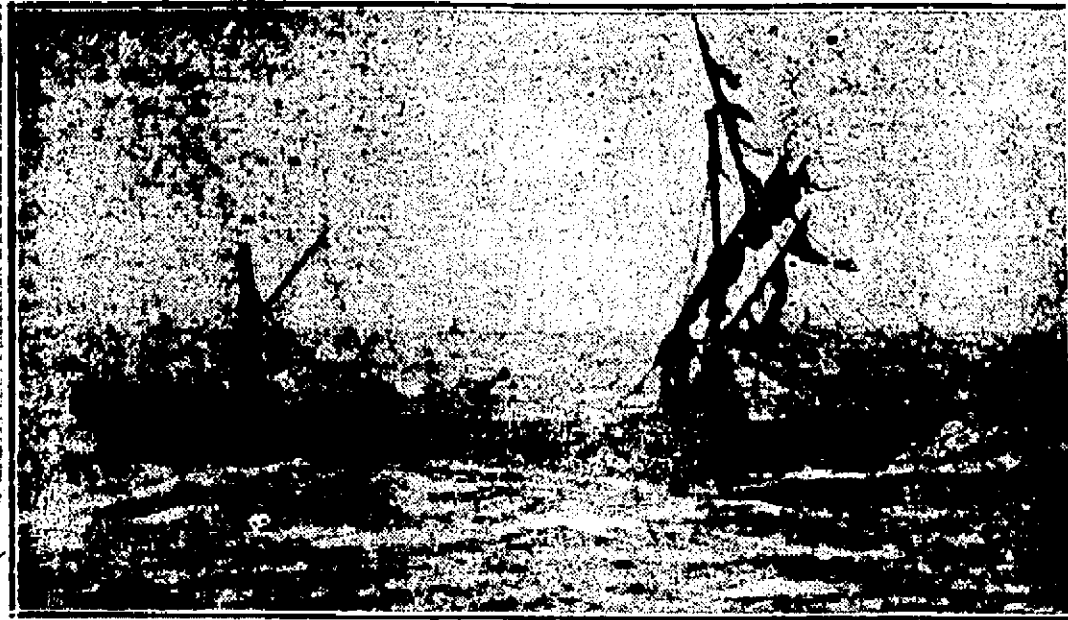

Here will be found Article 2, Section 5, as it now stands and as it is proposed that it shall be amended: Electors: In order to conserve the purpose of this Association, voting power and office holding, which is interpreted to include the chairmanship of standing committees, shall be vested in those members of the Association over eighteen (18) years of age who are members of Protestant Evangelical Churches and there by already committed to the fulfillment of the purpose of the organization. By Protestant Evangelical is meant those churches which are eligible to representation in the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Article 2, Section 5, as amended: Electors: Any woman or girl of the community, over eighteen (18) years of age, may become an elector in the Association upon payment of dues prescribed in the by-laws, provided she makes the following declaration: I desire to enter the Christian fellowship of the Association. I will loyally endeavor to uphold the purpose in my own life and through my membership in the Association.

(b) It is understood that three-fourths of the voting members of the delegation elected to attend a national convention shall be members of churches eligible to membership in the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. (c) It is understood that all members of the board of directors shall be electors and that three-fourths of them shall be members of churches eligible to membership in the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. Note: Any questions which you may have on the amendment can be referred to Mrs. Harry Walker (1925-26), membership chairman; Mrs. G. P. Ray (1926-27), president, or the Y. W. C. A. office (1911).

You will be sorry if you do not see this great picture, "Forever Yours," at the Auditorium next week Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, January 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, and 31.

The Week in Wall Street

New York, Jan. 15 (AP).—The stock market floundered around within a narrow trading area this week, while bond prices advanced to the highest general levels since the spring of 1913. A further softening of money rates was accompanied by huge importations of gold from France and Canada.

Speculative interest in the stock market centered largely in the rails, oils and a few specialties, most of which were bid up with the aid of powerful pools. Public interest in the market was apathetic to a marked degree, but the attempts of bear traders to take advantage of this by depressing prices met with relatively little success, except in a few motor stocks which were liquidated on fears of further price cuts.

U. S. Steel common failed to make much response to a reported quickening in mill operations, but some of the independents appeared to be under accumulation. Oils, particularly the Barnsdall issues, Atlantic Refining and Phillips, were bid up in expectation of favorable dividend announcements. A cut in gasoline prices in the middle west was followed later in the week by an advance in Pennsylvania crude prices.

Rails presented several points of strength, with the announcement of plans for a gigantic northwest merger involving the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Chicago, Burlington and Quincy roads, as the outstanding development of the week. Special strength of Lehigh Valley, which touched 121 for the first time since it was listed in 1911, was believed to represent open market purchases for control. Rock Island common, Great Northern preferred, Baltimore and Ohio, and Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred also touched their highest levels in years.

One of the most sensational movements of the week took place in Commercial Solvents B, which soared to a new record high at $255 a share. Sugars were inclined to be nervous in sympathy with lower commodity prices. Other food shares were mixed, special strength being shown by Postum Cereal. American Woolen preferred fell back sharply, but Consolidated Textile was firm.

Placing of the new Woolworth stock on a $5 annual basis equivalent to $7.50 on the old stock prior to the distribution of the recent 50 per cent stock dividend, and reports of record-breaking December sales by the 16 leading companies in that field, had a bullish effect on the chain store stocks. Tobacco stocks rallied briskly after an early period of heaviness.

Predict Thought Transmission

British Scientist Says It Will Follow Trans-Atlantic Telephone Service and Television—Other London Topics.

London, Jan. 15 (AP)—After trans-Atlantic telephone service and television, will come telepathy, which will do away with "tip-wagging, breath-puffing antics" now essential to transmission of our thought, is the prediction of Professor A. M. Low, British scientist.

"Wireless is developing human senses at such a rate that it is preparing the way for telepathy," Professor Low contends. "As it is, we are not content to receive an impression by man's senses alone. We don't judge our friends by what they say, but by their looks, their touch, their smell and other senses of which we have no more knowledge than had ancient Egyptians of the X-ray or milk bacteria."

Bible marvels are receiving growing support from science, says Sir Oliver Lodge, the noted physicist, and the progress of science is tending to strengthen theology in all its vital aspects.

"Certain Bible occurrences," he says, "have been doubted, such as the direct voice of the Baptist; the Presence of the Transfiguration; Saul's vision on the road to Damascus. All these things science is beginning to show were true happenings. I look forward to the time when incarnation will be rationally recognized as both a divine and human fact."

The Eton crop will last perhaps for another two years, but M. Emile, hair dressing expert, believes a reversion to long hair will certainly come within the next three years. Lecturing before a group of hair-dressers, he expressed the opinion that a return to long hair would bring longer skirts, basing his argument on the theory that women's hair dressing styles run in cycles, and short hair periods generally average about ten years.

After a lapse of 229 years an ancient legal dinner was revived here when the Benchers of Lincoln's Inn entertained the Benchers of Middle Temple. In the records of Lincoln's Inn there are entries referring to this dinner as far back as 1422. King George, as Senior Benchers of Lincoln's Inn, was one of the invited guests.

In 1679 the dinner was abandoned because of a fire in Pump Court. The river Thames was frozen over, water was hard to obtain, and it is recorded that the fire engines of the time played away many barrels of beer.

Britain's oak trees, whose praises have been sung by bards for hundreds of years, are being attacked by a mysterious epidemic which is being investigated by research workers on the Forestry Commission.

An assistant of the commission says mildew and royer moth are responsible for the disease which has spread over the southern counties and killed many of the oldest oaks. Fears are expressed that the finest oaks planted in the seventeenth century will be wiped out in another twenty years. Many young trees are being planted by the commission, as it is pointed out that an oak plantation takes so long in coming to maturity that private enterprise cannot make it a commercial proposition. The British oak is therefore becoming nationalized.

The Times—and there is only one Times so far as Britishers are concerned—makes a feature in its town office of displaying each day a copy of the newspaper of that particular date just 100 years ago.

The Times, England's most conservative and staple paper, today, as a century back, still devotes its first page to advertisements, and in 1826 there were just as many "housewives as now in search of a maid of all housework or 'cook general'."

Quite a number of the Times' first page advertisements of those days set forth the advantages of various ships which were taking on cargoes for all four corners of the earth, certain ones of which specialized in accommodations for passengers during the long lonesome voyage of many months.

ELLENVILLE NATIONAL BANK ELECTIONS

At the annual meeting of shareholders of the First National Bank of Ellenville on Tuesday, the articles of association were amended to provide for eleven instead of nine directors, and Bert H. Terwilliger and Devo W. Johnson were chosen new directors. Officers were re-elected as follows: President, M. E. Clark; vice-president, H. W. Coons; cashier, Frank B. Hoonbeck. Directors, Dwight Davis, Henry F. Hoonbeck, Louis DuBois, Arthur V. Hoonbeck, C. Dwight Davis, Chester Young, R. Eugene Clark, H. Westlake Coons, Bert H. Terwilliger, Devo W. Johnson and M. Eugene Clark. The regular semi-annual dividend of 5% was declared.

At the Home National Bank of Ellenville the following officers and directors were re-elected: George F. Andrews, president; James B. Smith, vice-president; Directors: James B. Smith, Walter S. Cox, James Overhead, William C. Rose, Elias A. Van Wagner, Raymond C. Cox, George F. Andrews, Frederick H. Cox, Richard T. Childs, Francis T. Andrews, cashier. The annual semi-annual dividend of 12 per cent was declared.

There will be a dance at Colman's Hall in West Shokan tonight. Music will be furnished by Rosen's orchestra. Everyone is invited.

Tracing Longyear Family Lineage

To the Editor of The Freeman: Sir—Allow me a little space in your valuable paper for that which may be of interest to many of your readers in Ulster county as well as elsewhere. Mrs. Fred M. Cleveland of 61 Wall street, your city, has received a letter from Edmund J. Longyear of Altadena, California, a part of which follows. Mr. Longyear is writing up the history of the Longyear family and as the writer as well as Mrs. Cleveland is interested, and many others who also may be, I am asking you to give this letter space in your paper.

To the descendants of Jacob Longyear:

In the year 1749 a weaver by the name of Jacob Laugner, living at Nachau, near Munich, Bavaria, sold all his property to his brother, Hans, and with his wife, Maria Koch, and two small children, Jacob and Sophia, sailed for America. After a perilous voyage lasting eleven months, during which the young daughter died and was buried at sea, they landed in New York and settled at Shandaken, a lovely spot in the Catskill Mountains.

They raised a large family, as was the custom in those days. Barbara, Johannes, Andries, Christoffel, Willem, Christina and Solomon were born in this country. They also had large families with the result that Jacob and Maria were blessed with forty-eight grandchildren.

The writer is endeavoring to trace succeeding generations with a view of making a history of all the descendants of Jacob and publishing the results in book form if he meets with sufficient encouragement. Cooperation in furnishing information by each one to whom this letter is sent will ensure success.

One thousand four hundred have been found up to January 1, 1926, and properly placed on the "family tree". There are probably at least five hundred yet to be located for whom search is now being made.

Cordially yours,
EDMUND JOSEPH LONGYEAR,
Son of Isaac, son of Peter, son of Johannes, son of Jacob.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your kindness, I am yours respectfully,
C. E. WOOD,
Shandaken, N. Y., Jan. 11, 1927.

HIGH FALLS.

High Falls, Jan. 15.—There will be preaching in the Reformed Church on Sunday morning, and Sunday school at the usual hour.

Miss Fannie Elmendorf of Poughkeepsie was a recent caller in this place.

Maurice Rosenbaum, who has been confined to his home for some time with the grip, has recovered and resumed his high school work.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Smith and Mr. and Mrs. David Wood visited Mr. and Mrs. Festus Yeaple on Sunday.

Mrs. Dewitt Beach visited her brother, Benson Elmendorf, at Briarcliff the past week.

Mrs. Preston Church, who had a slight operation for blood poison in her finger at the Kingston City Hospital on Thursday, is doing nicely under the care of Dr. Chandler.

A number of people in this community are sick with bad colds and grip.

The little son of Clarence Winchel met with an accident on Sunday and was quite badly hurt.

Miss Alta Broadhead of Walden came home for the week end but remained a few days longer on account of illness.

The people in this place are filling their ice houses with very good ice.

SERVICE OF SUMMONS ON TILSON RESIDENT

Justice Arthur S. Tompkins has signed an order whereby Eugene Schellenberger of Tilson may be served with a summons and complaint in an action started by the F. A. Gaerney Company, Inc. by having the summons left at the house or tacked on the door of his home in Tilson.

W. Harry Montgomery of Poughkeepsie is attorney for the plaintiff company which sold Schellenberger vines and trees valued at $158.00, which sum they have been unable to collect it is said. Elias S. Freer, constable of Tilson, was unable to serve the papers and his affidavit is included among the papers in the case.

Charles C. of C. Officers.

Herman C. Cowen has been re-elected president of the Catskill Chamber of Commerce. W. J. Haglinbotham was elected vice-president; George A. Deane, treasurer, and Mrs. Marie Butler, secretary.

Irish Poets Have Status

Poets are not faced in the District court at Ulster county, Douglas, Ireland. When a local poet appeared for having an undoubted dog the justice said he would not inflict a penalty on the condition that a poem be immediately secured. "Poets are never faced in this court," he said. "To be able to write poetry is almost as good a defense as it is to speak Irish." In a similar case the defendant could not speak Irish. The justice: "I'm sorry I cannot see you for the dog in this case and also sorry I cannot see you for not knowing Irish."

Model Motorist Should Match Car

A. A. A. Holds 1927 Model Motorist Should Show Mental Development That Is Proportionate to Car Improvement.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—Paralleling the introduction of new car models for 1927, the American Automobile Association, in a statement from its national headquarters here today, urged the importance of a larger proportion of model motorists for 1927.

A uniformly progressive motordom demands that the motorist's qualifications keep pace with the cars he drives, it is pointed out by Thomas P. Henry, president of the national motoring body, or he will be at the wheel of a car which has been improved far beyond his own capabilities to meet the new situations of motoring.

Mr. Henry sounded the warning that advanced ideas of traffic regulation and uniformity in driving customs are not more important than the development of responsibility on the part of the individual user of the highway.

Model Motorists Most Needed.

"We know by this time," he said, "that the human equation is present in the majority of accidents and in these cases it is the presence of the 'minus' that counts. We need a 1927 model motorist more than we need model cars, as the manufacturer has already done more to make his car perfect than the driver has done to make his driving a hundred per cent efficient. There is no doubt whatever that one of our great needs is better and more intelligent driving."

We have ample proof of this in the fact that relatively fewer members of our clubs are involved in accidents. We attribute this not so much to the safety education conducted by our clubs as to the fact that our members constitute by and large a highly intelligent group.

"The 1927 model motorist should drive his car at more intelligent variations of speed than his 1926 predecessor, who often mistook safety devices for a license to ignore all possibility of disaster. He will recognize as a fact that a car traveling fifty miles an hour will hit so much harder and do so much more damage than one going twenty-five, regardless of the faster car's equipment."

Should Discard Hazardous Customs.

"It is essential that the 1927 model motorist should be a student of correct driving methods. He should advance as much in knowledge as the 1927 car has advanced mechanically, and should discard many time-honored but hazardous customs. He knows that stopping distances, even with four-wheel brakes, are not in direct proportion to the speed at which a car is traveling."

"Imagination should improve as much in the new motorist as acceleration and power are increased in the new cars. One of the big needs is the surer foresight which will enable the model motorist to be always prepared for what the other driver intends to do. This improvement has long been needed. The majority of motorists have been able to foresee that a broken down car would not be able to climb a hill safely. They have been in the habit of watching for such cars, and passing them whenever they could. But the same motorists invariably failed to form an impression of the 'other fellow' as a driver and watch him closely."

"Altogether the 1927 motorist should be head and shoulders above his predecessors. Offered the further advantages of safer cars, there is no reason why he should not be able to make real headway in accident prevention and enjoy the fullest benefits of motoring."

"BREAKFAST" in BAKER'S BREAKFAST COCOA Means Something

The United States Food Standards define "Breakfast" as any food eaten before 12:00 noon. Many cheap cocoa (which cannot be labeled "Breakfast") contain not more than 10% of cocoa (or 15% of fat).

Baker's Breakfast Cocoa contains not less than 30% of cocoa fat, and 40% of cocoa (or 50% of fat). The Baker's Breakfast Cocoa is a pure, delicious cocoa of high quality and possessing a remarkable system of preservation.

Using Animals in Medical Science

Experiments With Animals Productive of Vast Benefit to Humans in Treatment of Diseases—Cost Small in Comparison With Benefit Derived.

Twelve years have been added to the span of human life during the past thirty years as a result of the employment of animals for the study of the physiology and pathology of man, according to Dr. Simon Flexner, chairman of the Public Health Council of the New York State Department of Health and Director of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

Measuring the blood pressure, which is now a routine procedure in a doctor's examination of a patient, is a direct result of experimental work on dogs and present day knowledge of the use of many valuable methods of treatment and prevention of disease is founded on animal experimentation. Among these, Dr. Flexner mentions digitalis in heart disease, quinine for malaria, safe drugs in place of the more dangerous opiates to induce sleep, antitoxin for diphtheria, vaccines for lockjaw, hydrophobia and typhoid fever and insulin, which he states has made happy the lives of hundreds of thousands of sufferers from diabetes. Any experiment which causes pain to an animal is always done under an anesthetic, he says, just as painful operations on man are performed under anesthesia.

These statements were made in a health talk on Medical Science and Animal Experimentation, broadcast Friday night from Station WGY.

Change Practice of Medicine.

"It was not so very long ago," said Dr. Flexner, "that a large part of medical practice consisted of putting drugs, of which the doctors knew little, into the human body, of which they knew less. A vast change has come over the practice of medicine within little more than half a century, and this change is directly dependent upon the fuller knowledge of man and his diseases, and ways in which the latter can be alleviated, derived from the study of animals, or from that branch of experimental science which is spoken of as 'animal experimentation'."

"Generally speaking, we do not reflect that doctors, like other persons, can learn only from observation and deduction, and the conclusions and deductions made from these. In no other way can knowledge be secured. When, therefore, in the past, doctors, upon being confronted with diseases which they wished to alleviate, used one or another method of accomplishing this object—whatever they did or attempted was at first in the nature of an experiment. Hence, as a matter of fact what might be called 'human experimentation' had been going on for centuries before science reached the point of development at which animals could be substituted for men in making the test."

"This substitution was of immense benefit to mankind, because the conditions of the experiment could now be controlled, accidental results eliminated, and many new kinds of tests or experiments devised and performed."

Studying Bacteria.

"At the outset, the normal, so called physiological processes were studied. This research was followed by the study of the pathological or disease-like processes corresponding to our notions of illness. Medical science took a great step forward when it was discovered that micro-organisms, often collectively termed bacteria, the numerous and potent causes of disease in man, could be propagated outside the human body and upon inoculation into animals would reproduce there diseases corresponding to those occurring in man."

"But the field of animal experimentation in relation to the prevention and cure of disease in man far transcends the group of bacterial diseases. Perhaps one of the most fertile fields is that of diseases of the circulation involving the heart and arteries—the class of heart diseases, in ordinary language. The extensive studies carried out on dogs, in which the circulation is comparable to that of man, have supplied many fundamental facts now in every day use in medical practice, as applied to the heart and its diseases. How often does the doctor measure the blood pressure and prescribe accordingly, and how rarely does even he recall that without the essential experiments made upon dogs, his observations would be no more accurate and useful than those of his predecessors of a century ago."

"The substitution of systematic experiments on animals for haphazard tests made on man has brought order and new knowledge into drug therapy, such as the employment of digitalis in heart disease, quinine for malaria, ergot in hemorrhage, the use of safe drugs to induce sleep in place of the more dangerous opiates, potent and safe anesthetics in the treatment of African sleeping sickness and many other diseases. The studies made upon animals have revealed the manner in which recovery, through immunization, takes place in the infectious diseases; and they have thus yielded such marvelous remedies as diphtheria antitoxin, such potent preventives of disease as tetanus antitoxin and vaccines for hydrophobia, typhoid fever, and yellow fever, and more recently the prevention of diphtheria and scarlet fever; and they have taught us how blood transfusion, often a life-saving device, may be safely carried out."

Value of Animals.

"It is inconceivable that the advancement of the understanding of the natural nature of disease and of the logical means of its prevention and cure, could have come from the mere observation of sick human beings, and the haphazard dosing of them with indefinite drugs. We owe the great progress of the past thirty years which has added about twelve years to the expectation of life, to the experiments of life."

"A Full House" At St. Peter's

A large crowd is expected to fill St. Peter's Hall on the evenings of January 17 and 18 when St. Peter's Dramatic Circle will present the new farce, "A Full House" by Fred Jackson in three acts. The talented young men and women in the play have all assisted in the production of past successes on the stage and the officials in charge promise that this play will be up to the standard, if it does not surpass all past performances.

The cast of characters is as follows:

Parke, an English servant, . . . Paul Sam Suse, from Sioux City, a maid, . . . Miss Rita Ketterer
Ottily Howell, a bride, . . . Miss Agnes Bruck
Miss Winnecker, from Yorkers, the aunt, . . . Miss Carrie Streble
Daphne Charters, Ottily's sister, . . . Miss Marie Ketterer
Nicholas King, a stranger, . . . Bill Houghtaling
Ned Pembroke, Jr., an only son, . . . George Heis
George Howell, a bridegroom, . . . Frank Leary
Dougherty, a police sergeant, . . . Andrew Juhl
Jim Mooney, a policeman, . . . Walter Houghtaling
Kearney, another policeman, Bill Cole
Mrs. Fleming, who owns the apartment, . . . Miss Gertrude Disch
Vera Vernon, a show girl, . . . Miss Dolores Rist
Mrs. Pembroke, from Boston, . . . Miss Marie Reis

Opera Fashions Portend Interest in Lace and Color for Spring.

New York.—A breath of spring made itself felt at the Metropolitan Opera House recently in the lace evening frocks noted, of which there were several in the film series, such as Chantilly. One all-black mousseline gown all around capote divided at the shoulders over a tight-fitting bodice, the skirt being slit at each side to reveal a satin underskirt. Another black lace dress worked the lace in deep points up on the upper section, which was of the same lace in delicate rose tint, the ribbon girdle combining rose and black. A heavy silk lace in deep blue made a skirt and revers collar on a silver cloth gown, while two tiers of rose-colored lace ornamented a youthful frock of white satin, the white satin slippers worn with this having rose heels.

The composite mode continues in interest, as evidenced in several gowns with the familiar black velvet and white velvet or satin combination, as well as in others, such as a white satin gown with bands of three shades of green forming the skirt, and one or two chiffon frocks in the black and flesh or black and light blue colorings. Another interpretation of the composite idea was seen last night in the costumes in which the frock was of one color and the slippers and wrap of another; this was noticed in a costume comprising one frock and jade shoes and velvet wrap, as well as one of scarlet frock and gold metal wrap and metal brocade slippers.

Chinchilla Registers. As a trimming, and in two wraps where it was used entirely, chinchilla fur, or chinchilla type, registered as interesting. One seamed and fitted wrap of green velvet on princess lines had its hem flare accented with a double band of chinchilla, the same fur used in narrow bandings for the bolster collar and the flaring cuffs. Several of the season's most interesting treatments of ermine were seen in the omni-present ermine wrap, both on cape and coat lines, including diagonal bandings, revers collars, triple tiers of tails, sables and mink insets, collars and cuffs, and collars of chinchilla.

Among the accessories on which most attention focused was footwear, perhaps the velvet and brocade combination leading in point of numbers, and it was noteworthy that these combinations seemed always to have been thought out with a great deal of care. A glistening white satin frock, the sole note of color introduced in the apple-green facings to the tiny revers collar, was completed with sandals of metal brocade in misty rose and green, the quarter section of the sandal being of apple-green velvet which made a gay note of color. A few dyed satin shoes were seen, and several delicate brocades in metal cloth accented with gold or silver kid.

employment of animals for the investigations of the physiology and pathology of man. And when it is taken into account that the number of animals employed for this purpose is relatively very small, that any experiment which may give pain is performed under anesthesia, just as painful surgical operations on man are performed under anesthesia, and that a discovery made in any part of the world is once freely communicated and may be applied far and wide, it becomes apparent how great is the sparing of human suffering, how increased the addition made to human happiness, and how small the price paid for these inestimable benefits.

"No one can estimate fully the innumerable blessings which have followed the recent discovery of insulin, a substance that, throughout the world is making the lives of tens of thousands, indeed hundreds of thousands of sufferers from diabetes tolerable and happy. No one can calculate the benefits which have followed already, and will follow in ever-increasing measure, from the discovery and investigation now in progress on the physiological basis of light, including the effects of x-rays, radium, and sunlight and its equivalent on such diseases as cancer, tuberculosis, and rickets. The possibilities opened here are so vast that one can only speculate on their extent. But these possibilities will come to be realized all the more quickly and completely, and with the maximum of benefit and the minimum of cost, only if the limitations of their use and abuse be established by animal experimentation before they are applied to human treatment."

The Shawl Has Furnished Inspiration for Many New Evening Wraps, Usually of Metal Brocade.

Paris.—The evolution of the shawl provides a timely theme. One finds its influence, rather than the shawl itself, important. The magnificent Spanish mantillas, as heavy, because of their exotic embroideries as a fur coat, were probably, for that reason, relegated as covers for the baby grand or chaise longue, while shawls of a simpler sort become the companions of our night life. Reboux makes large squares and oblongs of beautiful supple metal brocades, and achieves a distinction that is remarkable by adding a heavy tassel to one corner—the corner, by the way, that covers one's right shoulder—the tassel hanging at the front and the wrap, as is usual with shawls and wraps, drawn and held at the left side. A review of any

Most of the haute couture show scarfs of one sort or another. There are smart handkerchief squares in broken plaid surahs, and there are long scarfs in marvelous designs and colorings, including one by Martini and Armand in a cubist arrangement of many colored stripes.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Pretty Frock For The Growing Girl.

5617. Tulle, crepe de chine, or georgette would be very desirable for this design. It may be finished with short or long sleeve portions. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. To make this pretty model as illustrated in the large view, for a 10 year size, will require 2 1/2 yards of 40 inch material together with 1/4 yard of contrasting for yoke and cuff facings. It made without the present sleeve portions the dress will require 2 1/2 yards of one material and 1/4 yard of contrasting material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any person on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

SOME SANDWICHES

The hot sandwiches are always enjoyed on a cold night and one may serve a variety of them.

Toasted Cheese Sandwiches.—Cut white bread one-fourth of an inch thick, spread with mustard butter and sprinkle thickly with cheese finely grated. Cover with buttered slices, press together and arrange on a wire toaster. Toast a delicate brown on both sides. Serve with coles, tea or coffee.

Here is one that will do for a dessert:

Sunshine Cake Sandwiches. With Marshmallow Sauce.—Bake a sunshine cake in an eight by twelve pan and when cold cut into three-inch squares. Split and spread half the squares with the following: Drain free from syrup one can of peeled apricots, press the pulp through a sieve (there should be a cupful of pulp), add one cupful of sugar, the juice of half a lemon, or one half an orange, and the white of one egg; beat all together until the mixture will stand. Boil one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of water five minutes—do not stir after it begins to boil. Remove from the fire and add one-half pound of marshmallows cut into quarters and beat until melted. Serve at once with the sauce.

Marshmallow Tea Sandwiches.—Brush the sugar from the marshmallows and place them on vanilla wafers, set into a hot oven until plump and soft, remove at once and place, another wafer on top of the marshmallow, press lightly and serve at once.

Anchovy and Cottage Cheese Sandwiches.—To one cupful of cottage cheese add two teaspoonfuls of anchovy essence, one-half teaspoonful of paprika and a tablespoonful each of finely chopped chives and parsley; season to taste with salt and moisture with mayonnaise. Spread between slices of rye bread spread with the dressing. Garnish with new onions and serve with coffee.

Paris.—The winter modes, as they pass in review, give indications of what one must expect for spring.

Besides which, at this season, the southern exodus has begun. Those who stay behind, as well as those who go, have interest only in such clothes as are to be worn in the south.

It appears to be a white season, tempered, of course, with color, but a season in which white predominates. It also appears to be a season of soft lines. Even in the two-piece sports dress, or the skirt topped by a sweater, the line is flexible and bloused above the snugly-fitted hip. In evening dresses, the hair is for movement and for graceful bloused and bolero lines.

Materials are soft, and so are colors; and the use of fringe and of glittering spangles in drop effects frequently adds gaiety to scenes that must be charming because of the loveliness of the present styles. There are bows on the shoulder, or soft petaled flowers; there are tiers of fringe or frills; plants and gracefully curved neck-lines, inclining toward extremes when viewed from the back, but discreetly round or V shaped in the front.

Chiffon continues to be much worn for evening, but there are colored and metalized laces and all manner of crepes, including georgette; these liberally sprinkled with galletries or else solidly spangled. A soft mauve tone in these spangles is a ravishing coloring that suggests moonlight. Sapphire blue and even lacquer red spangles are worn.

The most desirable of all is silver, sometimes combined with gold, but more often either alone or with white beading; it being the fashion to combine spangles and beads. Naturally, this implies a season of elaboration, somewhat offset by the swinging lines and delicacy of color.

Health turns the Clock Backward

Stomach Suffering Stops

When the cause of stomach trouble is gone, the trouble soon goes as a matter of course. The work of the stomach is done by means of muscles. These muscles are in turn controlled by nerves.

If the stomach is not right, look for the cause in the stomach nerves. They lead to the spine and from there to the brain. It is at the spine that irritation of the nerves occurs. Given the proper adjustments, stomach suffering soon stops.

The Deutsche Zeitung, one of the chief Nationalist dailies of the country, published another special which read in part as follows: "Away with everything which is foreign and repellent to the German soul. We must purge our religion of all foreign heroes. No longer let our children be taught to revere Abraham, Jacob, who deceived his father and brother and was rewarded with riches, and David who slew Goliath at a safe distance instead of in honorable combat, are red-blooded men in the Germanic sense. Our religion in the future must be German in language and character."

To which the Socialist daily, Vorwaerts, replied: "The German people which the monarchists presumably would have us worship are murderers of Erbinger and Lichtenau and the chieftains of the Black Reichswehr who killed a score of Republican sympathizers."

There will be no more cold feet or Berlin traffic cops this winter if a system of artificial hot water bags and street intersections finds general adoption. The scheme consists of installing electric heating devices in a heavy glass-incased safety islands upon which cops stand during the day and which are illuminated from the inside with red lights at night. Traffic officers at the few intersections where the device is in use are seated with the idea. They say it is like standing on top of a warm fire.

Col. Leopold von Kleist, who takes credit this month as administrator general of the House of Hohenzollern in Berlin, has long been the most intimate friend and confidant of the former Kaiser. His appointment is taken as evidence of William's policy of continuing to reward his staunch adherents despite the loss of his throne.

Col. von Kleist was made aide-de-camp to the Kaiser in 1909. During the war he was commander of the army corps and was decorated for gallant service. Though little seen about the exile villa at Doorn, until recently, it is believed he has been in the former Kaiser's service since the war.

He succeeds Friedrich von Berr, who is reported to have resigned because of William's dissatisfaction with the indemnification settlement with the State of Prussia in which the Hohenzollerns received $25,000,000 in cash and property.

Award of the Nobel peace prize to Foreign Minister Gustav Stresemann led one of the ways in the diplomatic set to invent a pun which he tried out for the first time at the recent ball of the Turkish club.

"Meeting another diplomat," he said, "I understand diplomatic etiquette demands that we address the Foreign Minister's wife as Frau von Stresemann instead of simply Frau Stresemann."

"Why," inquired the diplomatic colleague, "my dear fellow," the alleged humorist replied, "haven't you read that Dr. Stresemann has been castrated?"

Marc Roland, a Berlin theatre orchestra conductor, has been in a row with the problem of keeping in contact with singers on the stage, despite the din of the orchestra. About the din of the orchestra, Roland has had a microphone installed on the stage connected with earphones which he wears clamped over his head. This enables him to hear the singers better and thus follow them with greater precision than is ordinarily possible from the orchestra pit.

Hamburg enjoys the distinction of having installed the first trackless street railway in Germany. In consideration of an omnibus to which are attached two or three trailers. The new line is used for suburban service between Hamburg and the town of Bergedorf. A special coupling device enables the trailers to follow exactly in the wake of the lead car. The trailers are equipped with air brakes controlled by the driver of the bus train.

Popular fish kitchens, recently installed in Berlin after the model of London, may be all right, but a number of business men have launched protests with the police against the new.

The approval of the idea underlying the recent erection of fish kitchens in all sections of the city, namely, that of enabling even the poorest of needy means to get a warm meal at night. But they ask, why must these fish kitchens be demolished on the main business streets, next to fashionable shops?

Among the most notorious objects are the owners of flower shops and perfume stores.

Blood Test Tells Number of Drinks

French Scientist Applied It to Dead Man but Determined Quantity of Wine He Drank—Two Hours of Accident.

Paris, Jan. 15 (AP).—A blood test in the really modern way to determine whether a staggering gentleman is really drunk. Striking proof that this is more certain than the old time police method of making a suspect walk a chalk line has been accepted by the Paris courts.

It is true that the experiment in this case was on a dead man, but chemists say the method will work as well on a live one. A motorist ran into a pedestrian who staggered into the car's right of way. The man was killed. There were no eye witnesses, but the driver demanded an autopsy. Leon Bonn, an expert chemist, attached to the courts, analyzed the victim's blood and found alcohol in sufficient quantity to indicate the man had drunk about four quarts of wine of ten percent alcoholic content. That made four-fifths of a pint of pure alcohol, which, the judges agreed, was enough to make the hardest drinker disregard traffic regulations.

Concierges who really protect the buildings under their charge have almost disappeared and are mourned by some of the retrospective French people who are appalled at the number of burglaries.

Concierges are institutions in little one or two-room apartments on the ground floors of flat buildings so they can watch the front door and keep out undesirable persons.

They have certain police powers and usually are in close relations with the police. They collect the rent, close the front door at a fixed hour at night and by means of a wire or an electric system release their lock for late callers or tenants.

The caller is generally required to announce the name of the person to be visited and the tenant always announces himself when returning at night. The concierge puts on the stair lights, which are automatically extinguished within a few minutes.

In the old days the concierges had free rent, a small salary and tips from everyone. Few get salaries now and their ambition causes them to do outside work that frequently leaves the buildings unprotected. Even when they are there their vigilance has been so relaxed that they afford but slight protection. Newspapers therefore have criticized them and to support their case point to the increase in burglaries.

Sabots, the big French wooden shoes, have been adopted by many of the autobus conductors of Paris during the cold weather.

When the thermometer hit freezing recently a whole flock of the bus men reverted to the methods of their youth. They knew that the thick woolen socks and the unrestrained movement of their feet would allow the blood to circulate while the tight shoes of civilization limited the thickness of socks and impeded the flow of blood.

Sabots, carved of wood, are also cheap and durable.

Louis Barthou, Minister of Justice, has learned by long experience in many Cabinets that listening to speeches is sometimes a bore and not always convenient. He has discovered one way of escaping in an emergency.

At a recent banquet that dragged, the speeches had not yet begun at a time when Barthou had an appointment he really wished to keep.

Someone began the toast by proposing the health of the President of the Republic. Barthou, a quick thinker, jumped to his feet: "Drink it standing," he shouted. Everyone was glad to see honor M. Doumergue. In the hubbub and the noise of moving chairs Barthou quickly backed away from the table and left the room. Foreign Minister Briand, watching him, shook his finger at him and the next day teased over him at the Cabinet meeting and said, "Fig."

WELL KNOWN SPEAKERS AT HOME CONFERENCE.

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Some of the people who will speak at the nineteenth annual home-makers' conference here are Dr. Amy Louise Daniels, of the Iowa child welfare research station; Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the bureau of home economics of the United States department of Agriculture; and Mrs. Lillian Gilbreth, efficiency engineer. The conference will be held, as usual, with Farmers' Week, February 7 to 12, and guests at the conference will have an opportunity to take part in both activities.

Many Activities At the Y. W. C. A.

The Business Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A. has fully decided that the supper next Wednesday evening shall be in the nature of a "Stunt Night," and every Y. W. C. A. girl knows that that means a lot of fun. Also at next Wednesday night's supper plans will be completed for the sleighride party which will take place the following Wednesday night.

Classes in handicraft and physical exercise as well as music are now ready to be formed or are forming and are announced as follows:

Why Not Make a Hook Rug? Mrs. W. J. Nelson will teach you during February. Sample rug on exhibition at Y. W. C. A. with list of necessary materials.

Advanced Basketry. Teacher: Miss Josephine Van Gravelen. Probably two classes, one afternoon, one evening. Course of six lessons. You can make a lamp, a waste basket and at least one other basket.

Beginning Basketry. Class will be organized upon request of eight members. Basketry classes start first week in February.

Schubert Choral Club. Director: Miss Virginia Lee Kaamp. Friday evenings, 7 to 8:30 o'clock. The Crescendo Mandolin Club. Director: Mrs. Inez Builey.

Swimming. New term starts February 1. Physical examination required. February to June 1. Further announcements will be made at the annual meeting, Monday, January 24, at 8 p. m.

TO BE HELD AT ITHACA. Beekeepers Session. The program of the short course in advanced beekeeping, which will be given at the New York State College of Agriculture here on January 24 to 29, is available and will be sent to anyone in New York state who is interested, according to Professor George H. Rea, extension beekeeper.

Some of the high-lights of the school include discussions on regional differences which affect beekeeping practice, marketing bee products, diseases of bees, and winter care. Professor Leland Spencer and Professor W. I. Myers, of the agricultural economics department, will be in charge of a marketing discussion on Friday morning, January 28, when everyone will have a chance to exchange ideas and discuss marketing problems.

On Monday evening, Dr. E. A. Bates, who is in charge of Indian relations at the college, will talk on red and white beekeepers. The next evening A. R. Mann, dean of the College of Agriculture, will tell of observations which he made in Europe when he was there recently in the interests of the International Education Board.

Dr. E. F. Phillips will talk to the group on Wednesday evening on his visit last summer among the beekeepers in Europe. On Thursday evening, L. O. Howard, chief of the Bureau of Entomology, at Washington, D. C., will discuss a half century of economic entomology.

At the annual dinner of the Hon. E. B. Club, which will be given on Friday at Willard Straight Hall on the campus, Charles Stewart, chief apilary inspector, will be "king bee."

DISCUSS DAIRY PROBLEMS AT CORNELL CONFERENCE

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 15.—A two-day conference for dairymen which will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, February 8 and 9, of the twentieth annual Farmers' Week at the New York state college of agriculture here will be centered about the economic depression and the sharper demand for good, sound cows.

A talk on the economics of herd replacement at 11 o'clock on Tuesday by Dr. G. F. Warren, head of the department of agricultural economics, is one of the outstanding features of the program. His talk will show the changes in the number of cows in the country and the influence of these changes on the plans for raising heifers that breeders should make.

Dr. C. H. Beckles of the University of Minnesota will be present both days of the conference and will discuss some considerations in raising dairy calves, and developing dairy cows that will wear and produce efficiently.

Other topics which will be discussed at other times are: "Selecting cows for soundness; regulations affecting the interstate movement of cattle, minerals to feed cattle, and problems in buying and selling cattle."

A program of the entire week may be had by writing to the state college at Ithaca, N. Y.

METRODYNE SUPER SEVEN

Seven Tube Coast-to-Coast Radio Set, single dial control. It has 5 stages of tuned Radio Frequency, Detector, and 3 stages of Audio Frequency. Approved by America's leading Radio Engineers by Popular Radio—by Popular Science Monthly, Institute of Standards and many other authorities. It is the highest grade Low-Loss radio set now on the market. One Rheostat to adjust. The Detector Tube, as well as the 5 stages of Audio Frequency, are controlled by the very latest design of Fixed Resistors; therefore they require no adjusting. Remarkably clear tone. No distortion. Unusually powerful volume. The Genuine Metrodyne has a combined Jack and Switch—when the plug is pulled out, the tubes are automatically shut off and there is no drain on the batteries.

Prices $75 to $200. ONE YEAR GUARANTEE—Furthermore, we agree to replace within a period of one year without cost to you any part in any radio set which might prove to be defective. Call P. S. Weeks, 75 Prospect St., Kingston, N. Y.

Elaborate "Pick
Up" for "Faust"

Color and Vividness of Original Music to Be Reproduced for Benefit of Radio Fans on January 21.

New York, Jan. 15 (AP).—The most elaborate system of "pick up" apparatus ever used will be employed by the National Broadcasting Company Friday, January 21, in sending direct from the stage, the garden scene of the Chicago Civic Opera
Company's production of "Faust".
Broadcasting will begin between 10:30 and 11:15 p. m., eastern time.
Fifteen or more microphones, separately or in various combinations, will reproduce all the color and vividness of the original music through a specially built "mixing" panel installed in the Chicago auditorium. Parts of the music, picked up by these microphones will be carried to the "mixing" panel and balanced and combined by musicians before the music is relayed by special circuits to the National Broadcasting Company's
"speech input control" in New York for distribution to stations.

Seven microphones hidden in the footlights will pick up the voices of the principals and chorus, three in different parts of the pit will carry the music of the orchestra, two hidden on the stage will absorb solos and duets, two hung high over the audience will provide general balance and carry the tonal atmosphere of the opera house, and one will be used by the announcer.

A diagram of the stage showing the position of the microphones will be used by an observer in the audience, who will telephone operators at the control-board backstage and order the proper combinations as the performance proceeds.

The principals who appear in the garden scene are: Edith Mason, Marguerite; Maria Claessens, Martha;
Charles Hackett, Faust; Yanni-Marcoux, Mephistopheles, and Irene Pav-loska, Siebel.

A Card Party.
A card party will be held at the home of Mrs. Leo Arace, 27 Henry street, on Monday, January 17.
Games will start promptly at 8:30.
Prizes will be awarded and refreshments served.

You will be sorry if you do not see this great picture, "Forever
After," at the Auditorium next week
Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday.—

$15,000,000 more to Meet the demand for Oakland and Pontiac Sixes

Scarcely twelve months ago Oakland was only one of many manufacturers striving for preeminence. Today it ranks among the largest builders of motor cars in the world. Responsible for this tremendous growth have been a continuous series of triumphs resulting in a record-breaking 212% increase in business over 1925.

With the advent of the past year, came the introduction of the Pontiac Six. So great was the demand it created, that in six months Pontiac Six production had exceeded the greatest full year record previously scored by a new make of car. And by the end of the year, with Pontiac production reaching 76,523 cars, that record had been surpassed by more than 100%! In July came the Greater Oakland Six with 77 refinements, featured by that epochal engineering development—the Rubber-Silenced Chassis. Again
America paid a wholehearted tribute to Oakland engineering vision. And again, in every section of the land, Oakland sales leaped upward, necessitating the unprecedented production of 57,566 Oakland Sixes—nearly 15,000 more than in 1925—and surpassing any previous record in Oakland's twenty year history.

Pontiac Six, $825 to $975. Oakland Six, companion to Pontiac Six, $1025 to $1295. All prices at factory. Bodies by Fisher. Easy to pay on the liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.
